ANNUAL REPORT for 2006

Happy Birthday To Us

In order to become a bona fide non-profit organization, founders must file Articles of Incorporation. The date on the Articles may well be considered the organization's birthday; the Friends of Bandelier were born on April 14, 1987. Our twentieth birthday is rapidly approaching! During all these years, I've interacted uncounted times with superintendents, heads of departments, support staff, regular rangers, and maintenance guys. They all uniformly say "thank you." And I say to you, dear Friends, "Thank You."

Over our 20 years, the mode of Park Service funding has changed. Nowadays, the Park Service awards competitive grants to its various units. Often, grant applications benefit from proof of public support. I've written many letters documenting public support of various endeavors. In addition, we have funded small pilot projects in anticipation of application for larger grants. We've also awarded matching funds for Bandelier's grant applications. Thus, the Friends have benefited Bandelier in more ways than only our own grants would imply.

Pinyon-Juniper Restoration

This year we're seeing progress on grants we made in 1994-1995. Park Biologist Brian Jacobs proposed possible ways to control erosion in the badly eroding pinyon-juniper (p-j) woodland. We funded small scale studies for him to determine which methods work best. He later got a Park Service grant to treat a small watershed in the backcountry. Then Brian went off to Fort Collins to get his Ph.D. Now, the park just issued a draft Environmental Impact Statement (dEIS) proposing to treat 4,000 acres of the p-j. The dEIS sets out three options: 1) do nothing, 2) treat within 5 years, or 3) treat within 20 years. Bandelier's preferred alternative (and mine) is to treat within 5 years. The public is welcome to comment before March 19, 2007. (The dEIS is 377 pages long.) Treatment involves cutting down most of the junipers, then scattering cut-up limbs as mulch. The woodland looks like a war zone, but it works: grasses and shrubs grow quickly and hold the soil. PS: Brian got his Ph.D. and came back to Bandelier.

90th Anniversary

With the park's 90th Anniversary Celebration, 2006 was probably the liveliest year ever seen at Bandelier. We funded several events, as well as cakes, invitations, tips, and even portapotties. Early in the year, Chief of Interpretation Lynne Dominy listed a number of events for which she had not yet arranged funding from other entities and said she might have to ask us. More often than not, she didn't have to. For those of us who remember the painful years after the 2000 Cerro Grande Fire, the public response was positively heartwarming. There are some in Los Alamos who still deeply resent Bandelier's role in the fire, but they seem to have become a tiny minority.

The rangers tried several new activities in 2006. Two were blockbusters: bread baking and the Fall Fiesta. At our Board meeting in December, Lynne and Superintendent Darlene Koontz were reluctant to say if they could repeat these or any other events pending more knowledge of the 2007 budget. Now that Congress has declared the 2007 budget frozen at the 2006 level, at least they can plan a bit better. I'm delighted to read in Lynne's State of the Park report that they will be holding at least these two events again.

Pablita Velarde Exhibit

The Friends biggest project for 2006 was restoration, conservation and framing for several painting by Pablita Velarde. The entire Bandelier Collection is now on exhibit at the Museum of Indian Arts and Culture from February 18, 2007 until January 6, 2008. MIAC is located on Museum Hill, Camino Lejo, in Santa Fe. The exhibit is beautifully displayed. We urge you to see it, and particularly note the following paintings, with the feeling that you helped to make them so presentable: Governing Officials, Pueblo Activities, Lynx, and two sets of cutout figures. Bandelier curator Gary Roybal is especially delighted with the framing of the 11 figures. He said he didn't know how these exquisite little masonite cutouts could be treated, but the framers at Frontier Frames did a great job.

Miscellaneous Nice Things

The Friends of Bandelier actually do more than plunk out our (your) own money. Sometimes we are able to help make things happen. We had two items this year. At the end of 2005 we received a donation in memory of Barbara Hemberger. The donors, Lynne and Mikkel Johnson, requested that, if possible, the donation be used for trails because Barbara and Phil really enjoyed hiking in Bandelier. Chief of Resources John Mack said that they needed material for new trail signs. Superintendent Koontz, who has to approve all expenditures to Bandelier, said she was always happy to support trails. This past year I had to hike all the trails in Bandelier. Everywhere we went, we saw handsome new signs

One of Barbara's trail signs

Lee Sullivan and I were chatting in the grocery store one day; she mentioned that various fires had burned all the resting logs on Burnt Mesa. She remarked that her elderly friends would be willing to hike farther if they knew there would be places to rest along the way. John Mack went out with us to Burnt Mesa to assess the need. Later, log benches appeared on Burnt Mesa and on the Upper Crossing Trail from Ponderosa Campground.

John says that the Friends actually helped pay for the log benches. We funded a Student Conservation Associate, Maryanne Pickett, who helped with the work. John also said wildland firefighters train at Bandelier; the logs got to the trailsides because one of their exercises is rolling logs. So, one fine day, do go out on Burnt Mesa to see the wildflowers and butterflies and relax on Lee's benches.

Maryanne's principal duties were monitoring fire effects. She recorded vegetative plots after the fires up by Cerro Grande and helped set up plots before prescribed fires are set near the entrance station. These are standard practices to see if fires perform as expected.

WebSite

The Friends have had a website for many years, mostly because it is the in thing to do. The site was actually rather dull; the only feedback I ever received was from web designers telling me how awful it was. Last summer Lauren and Harry McGavron bought a Bandelier Pendleton Blanket and joined the Friends. I always send out the latest newsletter to new members and Laurie saw my plea for a webmaster. She's done a wonderful job rearranging the pages and sprucing the site up with lovely color pictures. Ranger Sally King, Bandelier's premier chronicler, sends us photos of sightings in the park. Do check it out: www.friendsofbandelier.org

The Realities of Mailing

We maintain an e-mail list of members who prefer to receive newsletters electronically. The Annual Report is usually our only mailing to all members, primarily because sections of the report are hard to transmit to all e-people in readable form. We also put a membership renewal envelope in all mailings because all copies must weigh the same to qualify for our non-profit bulk mailing permit.

We've already received many renewals for 2007. Please don't think we've lost your renewal or that we are nagging for more contributions. It is especially nice that people save the envelopes and send them throughout the year as their memberships expire.

STATE OF THE PARK

Lynne Dominy, Chief of Interpretation

2006 was another successful year at Bandelier. The 90th Anniversary events kept the park in the news and people from all over had a chance to appreciate the "timeless landscape and legacy" that is Bandelier.

MANAGEMENT

With the increasing demands on the federal budget, the National Park Service is tightening its belt financially and looking for ways to become even more efficient. The park staff have been working to define the core operations of the park and to identify ways to be more efficient. New organization charts are being developed as a part of a plan scheduled to be fully implemented by 2010. This core operations reported will be completed later this year – stay tuned!

ADMINISTRATION

The administrative staff worked closely with our regional office to issue a public prospectus for the Bandelier concession contract in Nov 2005. All proposals were evaluating using specific criteria and the final selection was made in March of 2006. Bandelier Trading Company Inc. was selected to operate the merchandise & food/beverage services through March 2016.

To enable employees to participate in satellite training sessions, a new TEL training system was added in the parks training room. This interactive training tool enables the park to save money and time on travel and to maximize staff participation in off-site training sessions.

The park phones have really had some problems over the past few years. The park has maxed out the capacity of its outdated systems. So planning has begun for the replacement of the park-wide phone systems.

INTERPRETATION

A special thanks to the Friends of Bandelier for all of their support with the 90th anniversary! Bandelier was able to offer a full range of park and community activities because of your support. Positive feedback from the park visitors and surrounding communities was overwhelming. The anniversary Pendleton blankets were a huge success as were the commemorative poster, t-shirts, pins, and coins sold by WNPA. Congressman Tom Udall showed his support for the park by speaking at the August 30 event. The outdoor lecture series hosted by UNMLA and the presentations at the Historical Society lectures were very well attended. The Bandelier art exhibit at the Art Center at Fuller Lodge was also very well received.

Some activities were so popular in 2006 that we will continue them into 2007. People were thrilled with the horno bread baking demonstrations – especially the ability to smell the aroma in the canyon and to taste it hot out of the oven. We hope to continue these demonstrations from April through October of 2007. The dance demonstrations were also very popular. Zuni did a fabulous series of dances – filling the canyon with the sounds of drums, songs, and eighty dancing feet and overwhelming everyone with the beauty of their dance regala. We hope to continue these dances on the holiday weekends this summer with funding from the Friends. The Los Alamos community was also very excited to see the park participating in the community parades and activities – so we will continue to participate in 2007. Due to the overwhelming response to the Fall Fiesta, especially from the cultural demonstrators, we will host the 2nd Annual Fall Fiesta on Sunday, Sept. 30, 2007. This event brings all of our cultural demonstrators together to share their skills and knowledge with the public. In 2006, over 20 demonstrators came and the wait to get into the park was over one hour!

The other exciting news from Interpretation is that we spent all of 2006 finishing the designs for the new permanent exhibits. With the help of our Affiliated Pueblos, we have written all of the exhibit text (including Pueblo quotes and language translations in Zuni, Tewa & Keres), selected the Pueblo designs, created the color combinations, created the interactive elements, and selected a fabulous array of images. Sally King has spent the last 2 years photographing the park in all seasons so we had a wonderful collection of images to choose from. With funding from the Friends of Bandelier, we have also prepared all of the Pablita Velarde paintings for display and have commissioned many new pieces for the exhibits – including a Zuni migration mural, Zuni pottery, a Cochiti storyteller, and much more... These designs will go to the fabricator as soon as we begin the renovation of the visitor center (most likely in the fall of 2008).

A lot of 2006 was also spent working on Education projects. With funding from Parks As Classrooms (PAC), we offered a variety of teacher workshops and a special cultural demonstration program for schools. In the spring, over 5000 students participated in the opportunity to learn from a cultural demonstrator and to visit Bandelier. The Museum of Natural History also loaned their film crew to Bandelier to create a children's educational movie about exploring and protecting cultural and archeological resources in New Mexico (starring Bandeliers own Cecilia Shields and Cynthia Herhahn). Consultation was also completed with the affiliated Pueblos on the 4th grade ancestral pueblo teacher's guide so that it will be released to teachers in 2007. Two teachers worked for Bandelier in the summer as a part of the Teacher-Ranger-Teacher program. Tammy Hinckley, a fifth grade teacher at Barranca Elementary, gave guided tours on the Main Loop Trail and created a natural history field trip for 5th grade teachers. Josh Waldman, the Pojoaque High School American history teacher, worked on an interactive DVD program linking 9 parks together in the telling of the Ancestral Pueblo story. He also began a "Teaching with Historic Places" lesson plan for field trips to Bandelier to study the CCC/WPA period. Another teacher will be hired in 2007 to introduce them to the NPS.

Filming of the new park movie continued in 2006. Oral history interviews were filmed to capture many different cultural perspectives. Time lapse photography and backcountry scenics were completed in October. The crews will return in 2007 to do aerial photography and more scenics. The film will be very different than the exhibits. Whereas the purpose of the exhibits is to provide context for the experience in Frijoles Canyon, the film will focus on the things that most people do not experience – the wilderness, the wildlife, the diversity of the park landscape, etc. Combined together, these two interpretive experiences will provide the visitor with a much better understanding and appreciation for the entire park.

FIRE MANAGEMENT

For the past several years, Bandelier has been attempting to do a prescribed fire but the weather has not cooperated. In November of 2006, the fire management staff was able to complete a 500 acre prescribed fire around the mesa housing and juniper campground areas in the park. This was the first prescribed fire since Cerro Grande.

Fire staff will also be producing two annual publications about fire management activities in the park. The first of these publications was printed in the Los Alamos Monitor last summer and the next edition will be printed on March 18, 2007. These publications will also be available on the park website at www.nps.gov/band.

MAINTENANCE

The big 2006 project for maintenance has been the completion of their equipment storage building on the mesa. This building will be used to relocate all of the heavy equipment out of the canyon and to protect it all from weather and sun exposure. This building will also be used for all major deliveries made to the park to eliminate big truck travel into the canyon. The concession operation will also have a storage unit in this building that is used for all of their big deliveries.

The maintenance staff also managed contracts for the completion of the rehab on Juniper Campground Loop C and Building 13. Issues related to sewage capacity for Loop C have been resolved. Building 13 has been converted into the park library and TEL training room instead of the workout room.

Maintenance partnered with Rocky Mountain National Park to accomplish needed trail work on front country trails and portions of back-country trails. The Rocky Mountain trail crew now comes to Bandelier annually for 2-4 weeks to help us maintain our trails.

RESOURCE MANAGEMENT

The draft EIS for ecological restoration project was completed and released to the public for comments. To view or comment on this document, visit the park website under the Management tab.

Working with the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish, and the Santa Fe National Forest, the resource management staff placed 100 native Rio Grande cutthroat trout in Capulin Canyon creek. They also completed surveys of all suitable Spotted Owl and Peregrine Falcon habitat in the park. They collected shrub information from over 175 sites on the slopes of Cerro Grande to examine the influences of elk on vegetation succession.

In the event that the high elevation prescribed burn could occur, the archeology staff completed archeological clearance for Burn Unit 9E. This project consisted of site revisits to 36 sites, updating site forms and assessing hazard fuels and site condition. Hazard fuels were removed from seven sites prior to the prescribed fire treatments. This burn was delayed due to wet conditions in Unit 9E. Prior to the implementation of the lower elevation prescribed burn, the archeological staff completed archeological clearance for Burn Unit 40. This project consisted of site revisits to 82 sites, updating site forms, and assessing hazard fuels and site condition. Hazard fuels were removed from 49 sites prior to the prescribed fire treatment.

Working with PEEC, the resource managers involved over 300 students in migratory bird presentations and field trips to Bandelier.

Resource management staff also completed three phases of a Tinware contract by Bettina Raphael, Museum Conservator, which included conservation treatment of 79 pieces plus 5 reproductions and a final report. Curation staff catalogued, cleaned, and photographed 54 tinware pieces during this period. They also completed conservation treatment, framing, and matting of 14 of Pablita Velarde paintings in preparation for a 2007 exhibit at the Museum of Indian Arts and Culture in Santa Fe (with gracious funding from the Friends of Bandelier).

RESOURCE PROTECTION

Over 8,700 campers used Juniper and Ponderosa campgrounds.

Hikers spent over 1000 overnight stays in backcountry areas.

Fee collectors sold over 2,000 National Parks passes and over 375 Bandelier passes.

Fifty-two Special Use Permits (weddings, filming permits, etc) and business permits were issued.

Following fuel reduction projects on Forest Road 289, almost 500 free firewood permits were issued and monitored.

Thank you, Los Alamos National Bank for your faithful support for our entire 20 years.

Are your dues due?

Check the upper righthand corner of your mailing label for your expiration date.

To qualify for our bulk mailing privileges, the post office requires that all our pieces be identical. Therefore, we have to put a renewal envelope in each piece, even though you may have recently renewed. We are delighted that people save the envelopes and send in renewals throughout the year.

Prefer to get your regular newsletters by e-mail? Send your e-address to
